About This Property

The Petit Gîte de Bussolles is a snug 35 m² studio for two on the estate of Château de Bussolles, a real French château in 12 hectares of meadows in the Allier, in the heart of France. It is on the ground floor of an outbuilding beside the château and has its own entrance. From your own terrace you look out over the hills on one side and up at the château on the other. It is a quiet place for a few days away together, or an unhurried stop on the drive south. As one guest put it: “It was very easy to feel at home here.” InsideThe living room and kitchen are in one, with a dining area and a TV. The kitchen is fully equipped, with a dishwasher, toaster, coffee maker and kettle. A comfortable king-size bed is on the mezzanine, and there is a compact shower room with toilet. A heat pump keeps the studio cool in summer and warm and snug in winter. OutdoorsThe terrace offers a quiet place to sit outside, with views of the surrounding hills and the château.
