About This Property

The Yellow House is the smallest of the four gîtes at Les Gîtes Condorcet, a 30 m² hideaway for two in a converted former stable in Saint-Laurent-de-la-Salanque. It has a bright, cheerful feel, with solid pine floors and exposed stone and timber in every room, and is labelled 3 épis by Gîtes de France. It is a comfortable alternative to a hotel room for a couple or someone travelling on their own. It is also classified as a 3-star “Meublé de Tourisme”.

Downstairs there is a characterful kitchen with modern appliances (there is no dishwasher in this gîte) and an open-plan living and dining area with comfortable seating. Upstairs, a double bedroom with a 160 cm bed is reached past a feature balustrade made from the stable’s original wooden manger. The en-suite bathroom has a large shower and a washbasin, with a separate WC. Electric heating is provided throughout. This gîte has no washing machine; guests can access a washing machine or request a service wash.
