About This Property

Le Moulin sur Célé is a restored 16th-century watermill beside the river Célé near Saint-Sulpice, in the Lot. Its two stone buildings are linked by a wide terrace, giving a group of friends or a family space to spend time together and quieter corners to themselves. Deirdre and Marc, former hoteliers from Ireland, personally welcome guests. Bedrooms and living spacesThere are five en-suite bedrooms for up to 10 guests: three double rooms and two twin rooms. The bedrooms have air conditioning, overhead fans and mosquito nets. The accommodation extends over 256 m² across the Miller House and Tower House. The living spaces combine exposed beams, stonework and a large fireplace. The fully equipped kitchen has a La Cornue cooker, dishwasher, food fridge, separate drinks fridge and ice machine. An all-weather dining room and several outdoor dining areas make it easy to gather for meals.
