About This Property

La Dixmeresse welcomes guests to five individually named rooms and suites in an 1834 manor house in Restigné. Each has a king-size bed, a sitting area and a private bathroom. Rooms are booked individually; this listing brings all five together. Rooms for couples and familiesMaurice Genevoix is a bright ground-floor double room. Honoré de Balzac is a first-floor family suite with a double bedroom and a separate room with two single beds. William Turner accommodates two or three on the first floor. François Rabelais and Jean Schubnel are second-floor double rooms with air conditioning. The five rooms normally accommodate thirteen guests in total. Extra beds in the Balzac and Turner rooms may allow up to fifteen by prior arrangement. The room cards describe the standard sleeping arrangements. Breakfast and thoughtful comfortsBreakfast is included and served in the breakfast room, or on the terrace when weather permits.
